OGDEN'S CARNEGIE LIBRARY Preparations for Its Formal Opening

Under Way.

(Special to the "News.") Ogden, March 3,-Preparations for he formal opening of the Carnegie library are nearing completion, and it is expected that in about three weeks this important event will take place. A meeting of the library board was held last evening for the purpose of considering the furnishing of the building and appropriate ceremonies for the opening of this great educational institution for the use of the public. Miss Faddis, an expert librarian from Chicago, is here for the pur-pose of training a number of young ladles in the art of taking care of libraries, and to arrange the books and furniture in the most systematic and approved style. After the necessary training has been given the young ladies, an examination will be given them, and the one proving the best qualified will be rewarded with the position of librarian for the new insti-tution. Miss Faddis extends an invita tion to all young ladies desiring to enter the contest to meet her at 1. tomorrow morning, and those who enter the field will have an equal chance to secure the prize. The board also appointed a committee to attend to all worthy the occasion. Another meeting of the board will be held on Thursday evening to give the matter furthr consideration. BROKE HIS RIGHT LEG.

IDAHO'S SUGAR BOUNTY.

Friends of the Measure Victorious in The Senate Yesterday. Advices by wire from Boise this morning state that the discussion over the sugar bounty bill in the senate late yesterday afternoon was of the warmest character, but that the friends of the measure were victorious at every turn. Mr. Brigham of Latah county who has hitherto opposed the bill, is now ranked among its supporters. An inquiry developed the fact that the amendment providing that no bounty hould be paid on beets grown by allen labor, was not passed the other day as had been stated, though several mem-bers insisted that this was an error of The vote defeating various bjectionable amendments was a nar row one, 10 to nine, but unless there are some further changes, it is expected that the bill would come up today on its third reading and pass the senate just as it passed the house. It will then go to the governor, and report st that he will sign it at once. Sh this be done offices will be opened mediately in Bingham county, Idaho, and active work be commenced for planting a crop in order to secure a bounty on an output of sugar for the

HELD AS PRISONERS. Novel Experience of Young Ladies in County Clerk's Office.

Miss Ella Cottle, a deputy in the county clerk's office, and a young lady friend, had the novel experience of being held as prisoners in the office for over an hour last evening, and, for the time being, there was a question in their minds as to whether or not they would not be compelled to remain pris oners all night. Miss Cottle and he friend had remained after office hours to complete some work and, upon the departure of the last gentleman clerk from the office she requested him to lock the doors.

He compiled with the request and locked not only the outside doors but also the inner iron doors which have a patent spring lock, and, when locked, they render the office fireproof as well as burglar proof. Miss Cottle worked until after 6 o'clock and then decided to go home. When they tried the doors they refused to yield to the combined efforts of both young ladies. Neither lady knew the combination to the lock, so they were confronted with rather a erious problem in discovering an avenue of escape. All efforts to open any of the doors predicament began to dawn upon them, when they happened to think of en-gaging the services of the telephone to assist them in being released from their prison. They called up Miss Cottle's parents and informed them of the situation and Mrs. Cottle at once hurried to the residence of Deputy Clerk George Armstrong for assistance, Mr. Armstrong accompanied Mrs. Cottle to the city and county building and unlocked the door of the office and released the young ladies, after an imprisonment of Coronation Celebration.

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of Pope Leo XIII's Crowning Observed in Rome-Eternal City Showed Unusual Animation- Crush to Get Into St. Peter's-Procession of Cardinals and Church Dignitaries Was Magnificent.

Rome, March 3 .- From sunrise today , laid with gold and they were steel helall Rome was on the alert and showing most unusual animation and interest in the celebration of the twentyespecially noticeable at the large hotels which were illuminated as though for ple congregating at the vatican could be formed by the fact that it was utterly impossible to get a carraige if the vehicle had not been ordered yesterday, especially as it was raining, and by the prices charged for those secured in advance. The scene on the piazza of St. Peter's was magnificent. There were assembled many hundreds of Italian troops in various modern uniforms, making a striking contrast with the mediaeval costumes of the Swiss papal guard on duty at the bronze loors of the cathedral. The crowds which gathered before the first cordon of troops were impatient as they stood dripping under the persistent rain. There was a great clasping of umbrellas and a general feeling of discomfort among the awaiting sight-seers, who included very many women most varied attiries, comprising foreigners of all nationalities, and Italians from all parts of the country, the uni-formity of the crowd being pleasantly broken by groups of sisters in the dif-ferent gowns of their orders, Catholic students and picturesquely attired When, finally, the doors of St. Peter's were opened an almost indescribable struggle occurred in which all present forgot the rules of holiness and strove hard with push of elbows and feet to reach the interior of the sacred edifices, while on all sides were heard order. while on all sides were heard cries of fear and imprecations not very well suited to the spot where a notable re-ligious ceremony was about to begin. Once inside the cathedral, the ladles once inside the cathedral, the ladies who wore lace gowns found them to be in a much mutilated condition, and some of the women were carried away in a fainting condition. The tribunes were soon crowded to overflowing and all the best standing places were taken, A period of comparative calm succeeded this great rush, and the attention of the people was attracted to the gilded throne near the high altar, and to the immense pillars of the basilica, hung with red silken draperies. Some of the tribunes on each side of the al-tar were filled with men and women blazing with decorations.

In a group of royal personages were the Crown Princess Victoria of Sweden and Norway, the Counters Mathilde of Trani, of the Bourbon-Naples faimly; the Grand Duchess of Saxe-Welmar, Duke Robert of Parma, the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg, the Prince of Liechtenstein and Prince Maximilian of

In a special tribune was the pope's family, the diplomatic corps and the members of the Order of Malta, all in Special interest was shown in the innovation introduced by the uniforms of the different detachments of the papal guards. The Swiss guard were re vet, knee breeches, red silk stockings, black shoes, with red rosettes, burnished steel cuirasses inlaid with gold and steel collars in addition to large, whit linen collars, starched stiff, falling over their shouders. mets with red ostrich plumes, similar to the hemets of the sixteeenth cen-

the nemets of the sixteenth century. The noble guard wore their new uniforms of bright red.

After an hour of very fatiguing waiting a majestic procession began to appear. It was composed of the great dignituries of the church, the 45 cardinals present, gorgeous in their red robes, alone making a most imposing, characteristic and picturesque group.

At 11 o'clock precisely the great bell of St. Peter's rang out a signal which was followed by the clanging of the bells of about 500 churches in Rome as they sounded the announcement that the pontiff was on his way to the basilica. The life of the ancient city seemed to pause for a moment, hats were raised and the sign of the cross was made Shortly afterwards, inside St. Peter's, silver trumpets blared out their message and the pontiff appeared. The peo-ple held their breath for a moment and then all of the pent up enthusiasm burst forth in a tremendous roar of From his elevation on the new sedia gestatoria carried by 12 men in costumes of red brocade flanked by the famous flabelli (spreading feather fans) and surmounted by a white and gold canopy, the pope appeared to be more than a human being. He seemed to be a white spirit, this impression being added to by the pontiff's white robes and white mitre, delicate features, face white as alabaster and his thin hand moving slowly in benediction.

As the sweet toned, well trained voices of the Sistine choir sang "Tu Es Pet

At the moment of the elevation of the semblage, the guards presented arms, the people knelt, where is was possible for them to do so, and from the co ola came the clear, thin sounds of silver trumpets giving the idea of heaven-

ANOTHER FISH AND CAME BILL

Senate Committee Will Prepare a Substitute Measure.

USE OF SEINE PROHIBITED.

Senator Loose Belivers an Oration Before Committee That Results In Radical Amendments

The senate committee on fish and game held a long and interesting session this morning in considering the fish and game bill that has been so bitterly assailed by people from various sections of the state. The meeting closed with the understanding that the bill is to be killed and a substitute measure of the committee's own making will be offered in its place, The chief features of the new bill are, first, a provision absolutely prohibiting seining in any Utah stream or body of water at any time for two first, followed by snow, though the years to come; prohibiting proprietors of sawmills from using streams for carrying off the sawdust; prohibiting day recorded 36 degrees above zero, and at 11:20 it was up to 43 degrees, the shipping of game fish out of the state at any time; preventing fishing streets are muddy enough now, and streets are muddy enough now, and with single hook and line during closed season except in Utah lake and in These amendments show the fine Italian hand of Senator Loose. The committee invited the Utah senator to make a statement of his views this morning and he did so in language about as follows: "Gentlemen, if you will put a stop to selning in Utah lake for three years, you will see the greatest fish pond west of the Missouri river. You gay that seining has to be al-

game fish. Gentlemen that is all in your eye. These bad fish are held up as a scarecrow before you merely as a blind, behind which the catching of Utah game fish goes merrily on and you can buy them in Denver or Butte, any old day of the year. I know it bevery heart of the closed season. These fellows pack the carp and chubs and other bad fish around the outer part of the box, and put the game fish in the center, and away they go. This idea that the carp are destroying the trout is all fol de rol. The carp were here ages before we were, and so were the trout, and they got on well together, except that the trout eat up the little carp, and this constant harping on the bad fish eating up the game fish is only a subterfuge used by men who are catching and shipping the game fish out of the state in violation of the law.

This is about a quarter section of the oration that resulted in the amendment already referred to, prohibiting the use of the seine in Utah. Senator Gardner pposed the proposition, also Senator Murdock, but their objections were not given much consideration by the com-BIG STORM COMING.

Weather Bureau Looks for Rain and Snow Very Shortly. The barometer was skating downward with every indication of a good big storm, and this morning it was raining in southern Idaho. The local weather office was looking for the storm to break loose here at any time and last several days. Rain is expected clerk of the weather may vary this with the coming of rain, mud will reign supreme and trade from the country will be very light on account of dread-ful roads. But the precipitation will load the ground with moisture, and help send up the great lake.
